The Graduation Ceremony took place at the Ethio-Asembly Hall in Addis Ababa on 27 March 2005.

The tumultuous applause and the boundless delight that accompanied the poem read out by one of the prospective graduates was but only the tip of the iceberg of the cumulative expression of hard-won achievement.

The announcement of the free scholarship grant to graduate Tamrat Zewde Tegegn who brilliantly exhibited his academic caliber in his English Diploma Program by scoring spectacular 3.83 cumulative average is really a constructive academic inspiration and gesture.

The President of the College, Ato Wondwosen Tamrat, Asst. Prof. reminded the prospective graduates to be good models in their respective working places and localities after expressing his appreciation for the determination and patience the prospective graduates exhibited during those three solid years through and through.

The Dean of the Distance Education Program, Ato Girma Bayouh congratulated the 1055 prospective graduates of which 80 were women. He went on to appreciate again the determination of the prospective graduates, the academic and the administrative personnel of the college at every level, the advice and the given by educational authorities like the MOE, the regional education offices, and service rendering agencies like the postal, transport, telecommunication, etc without which the rigours of all those ups and downs would have remained a real challenge.

The Guest of Honor of the occasion His Excellency Professor Darge Wole, Professor of the Department of Education of Psychology and Director of the AAU Press, awarded prizes to academically ranking students. The guest of honor, in his closing speech, stated that the prospective graduates should prepare themselves for the coming future which would be heavily charged with the dynamics of changes of various forms.

Although the ceremony ended in the hall, it continued inside the campus, and finally, the graduates carried it beyond the beyond in to the gorgeous gorges, mountains and fields to the localities afar where the graduates and their families dwell.

Exemplary Performance

The Marketing Department students have always been exemplary students in our college since last year in promoting the classroom lectures into real practice.

Lending a Hand

Though the instructors and the college management had their own inputs in the preparation and implementation of the 'Trade - show' organized under the motto of 'Best of St. Mary's Trade' held from 28 February - 6 March 2005, it needed leadership of the students themselves to bring the Trade - Show into a successful finish.

The college management, the Marketing Department and the students have expressed their appreciation and thanks to the business firms that enabled the students secure goods on consignment, to the invited guests and particularly to Ato Wubshet Workalemaw who, despite his tight program, he accepted the invitation of the department forwarded his professional support and advice with the sence of humor skills.

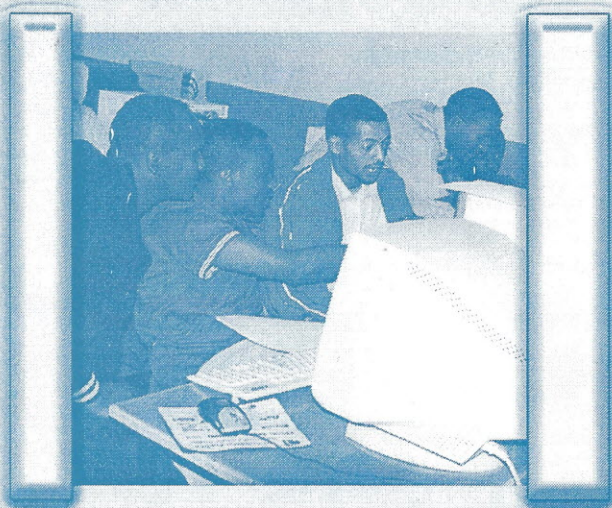

As usual, the College has given its 1997 EC scholarship award for more than 20 candidates from government and non-government organizations based on their academic achievements and the recommendation they submitted to the college.

Ten teachers from schools were also given scholarship to upgrade their levels. In addition, the Department of Information Technology gave a training for eighteen employees of various offices of Lideta "Kifle Ketema" for a month and a half on Microsoft Windows 2000, Microsoft Word 2000, Microsoft and Excel 2000 and Microsoft Access 2000, as it can assist the effort of the "Kifle-Ketema" administration to capacitate its manpower. The trainees were awarded certificates for their successful completion of the aforementioned courses.

SPSS Workshop

Twenty instructors participated a five - day (from 26 February - 1 March 2005) workshop on Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS) at the main campus to equip themselves with the necessary research analysis methodology in a bid to maintain and enhance the research culture of the college.

Awareness Creation workshop

The resource persons

W/ Tsige Taffese, W/ Mentwab Zelelew and Tiruwork Alemu, a lecturer, an assist. lecturer and a counselor of the college respectively, gave a half-day workshop (April 2005) to more than 50 female students at Mexico Campus on 'Women Education', 'Assertiveness' and on 'Sexual Harassment'.

After some basic ideas were forwarded by the resource persons, active discussion soon ensued. The backward culture, among many other things, was sited as the primary source of the various impediments that women face. Due to the backward cultural bondage, it was stated that the number of women in higher education is low, women are expected to be submissive on every issue and sexual harassment is taken as a normal male practice.

Female students attending the workshop

St. Mary's College

Finally, it was agreed that all these problems of women could be minimized and through time solved only by working together with men and by creating shared understanding on the problem. And to this end, a fifteen- person task force is established of which only 4 are instructors. The participants were very happy and even wrote letters of appreciation and thanks to the Counseling Unit.

Practicum Workshop

A half - day practicum workshop was prepared by the Practicum Unit for the partner schools' directors to highlight the modes of operation of practicum and to discuss on problems and gaps encountered.

Ato Fekadu Begna, Head of the Faculty of Teacher Education and Ato Melaku Girma, Head Department of Education discussed the theoretical aspects of the topic under discussion corroborating them with ideas from their own experience.

The schools' directors appreciated the program and some mentioned that the program has helped them to become aware of some important educational matters.

It was also stressed that the college in general and the Practicum Unit along with the Teacher Education Faculty in particular should work closely with the partner schools' directors to facilitate the program by way of minimizing the problems and narrowing the gaps encountered every time.

Quality Audit Workshop

As the college has had a long established interest in researching and developing the quality of its teaching learning performance, it requested the assistance of two scholars from the Voluntary Service Overseas (VSO)-UK and who are higher education management advisors to the Ministry of Education Prof. Kate, Vice Director of the Higher Education Strategy Centre (HESC) and Dr. Philip Rayner, Vice Director of Education Relevance and Quality (ERQA).

The college established an eight-person committee to work with those VSO professionals to analyze where the quality 'gap' might be occurring and to suggest ways and means to work towards developing the quality of education in the college.

The quality audit took the existing structure and systems at the college taking some of the quality process and quality data. In addition, the quality audit team decided the content and the direction of the process of audit; the definitions of its aims and principles, and how it would translate principles into criteria; and the scope of the audit data collection methods.

the scope of the audit data collection methods.
